Our Response

What is MyOrbit.tv?

MyOrbit.tv is an interactive Internet video channel focused on business and professional development.

Why MyOrbit.tv?

There is a need for better business communication – interaction and engagement – with prospects and clients. We are leveraging our industry experience and new media technology for business. Our focus on business and professional development makes us unique. Our members & viewers includes professionals at all levels- line managers, project leaders, Directors, CXOs & Board members.

We are pushing the boundaries of Internet media in news ways, like:

- Promoting businesses to clients worldwide (eg. a logistics company showing its facilities and client testimonials, or a BPO company showing its team and operations)
- New product demos by companies (eg. a medical diagnostics company demonstrating the benefits of its new diabetes management product)
- Improve Sales & Marketing with reduced costs of travel and getting attention of buyers using effectively prepared videos
- Market research and Concept testing – reaching out to a targeted group of executives/professionals to validate a business plan or any new offering – could be new airline seating, new software, etc.
- Training & People Development (eg. sales training and commercial presentation videos, job candidates presenting experiences through video)

Our members & viewers are professionals & executives worldwide

Way back in 1984, John Gage, co-founder of Sun Microsystems said: "The Network is the Computer" to describe the emerging world of distributed computing; it was dismissed then by industry experts, but today it symbolizes the explosion of Internet based computing.

Today in 2007, if you combine the Internet with 'Professional Networks', you can probably say: "The Network is the Business"...and that's MyOrbit.tv, Your Internet video channel for Business & Professional Development.

If you are in any kind of profession or business, we will show you at least two ways to rapidly benefit with us. Make new media work for you!

- Brand Building
- New Product Launch
- Proposals (private videos)
- Business Events
(coming soon)

Operations & Service Delivery

- Easy to put in Intranets
- Knowledge Sharing
- How To Videos
- Visual Status Reporting
- Video Conferencing
(coming soon)

Benefits for Sales & Marketing

- Business Leads – When you have your product/solution description videos or when your company member participates in a industry discussion, you can put contact information and website link along with the video, and interested people will come directly to your site and contact you. Also, you can email the link to your video in your biz dev emails, and 80% people will at least click the link and come to watch it. It's a big difference from the typical response to emails. Now whether they see the whole video, or close it after 30 seconds is up to you (though we can help you in that also).
- Brand Building – If you are a small or medium sized company, we present among the best investments for brand building. By having your solution description videos available to all audience on MyOrbit.tv, you can leverage our marketing efforts to reach a range of business professionals worldwide. These are people who use sites like CIO.com, CFO.com and other business websites.
- New Product Launch – Businesses are planning to launch their new products or service on this channel, which is a cost-effective way to reach target audience both for B2C and B2B offering.
- Proposals (using private videos) - It's a powerful feature for presenting details to clients/prospects. Clients will watch videos with interest if you embed them in the proposal or show them a link. In addition to getting comfortable with your team, they will see you as more proactive – significantly increases your chances of winning. Few companies do this. MyOrbit.tv can help you use this edge. Also, when you include a videos of your subject matter experts you are making your best pitch, and it also does not need travel costs, and no appointments needed.
- Business Events (coming soon) – In about 2 quarters, you can conduct business events, like an online presentation, with a targeted audience of MyOrbit.tv, which we will handpick for your presentation. External agencies would give thousands to get a chance to email them, where as you can present to them directly.

Benefits for Operations & Service Delivery

- Easy to put in Company Website & Intranets – by copy pasting just 3 lines of html code, you can make the same videos play on your Company Website and Intranet. The video streams from MyOrbit.tv, and your audience/ teams can use the same web pages as before, which now have video also.
- Knowledge Sharing – Experts in a given area can record their expertise while presenting on the white board or in a Q&A mode, and that can be shared across geographically dispersed teams. For example, one company is preparing team induction videos which will be uploaded as private videos.
- How To Videos – How To stuff is among the most watched and also establishes rapid credibility of the presenter. With How To videos for all key product lines, each employee can share essential knowledge with clients/ prospects. You should plan to have a few public 'How To Videos' related to the problems you solve. For example:
 - If you are an accounting firm, it can be: How to make an SEC filing?
 - If you are a compliance consulting firm: How to avoid pitfalls in SOX compliance?
 - If you are a software services company: How to implement ERP/CRM rapidly?
- Visual Status Reporting – very useful in geographically dispersed teams. Monthly or quarterly status reports can be video presentations followed by a telecon. The confidence and transparency will increase.
- Video Conferencing (coming soon) – In about 2 quarters, we also plan to offer video conference capabilities to our members, which is effective in some initial discussions to build rapport. Static videos still have their importance because you can deliver your content in a planned way.
